

Contents

Preface to the 2004 Edition	vii
Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	1
A. The Thesis of the Book	1
B. Green and the Quest for a Philosophy of Life.	4
Chapter I: Green's Philosophical Development.	11
A. Misapprehensions as to Hegel's Intellectual Influence on Green	13
B. Green's Study of Hegel	20
C. The Philosophische Propädeutik	25
D. The Parallel Structure of Epistemology and Psychology in the Propädeutik	35
E. Insights Green Derived from the Propädeutik	44
F. Green and Aristotle.	49
G. Conclusion	55
Chapter II: 'Certain Primary Problems . . .'	57
A. The Function of Idealist Metaphysics in Green's Moral Philosophy.	59
B. The Structure of Green's Argument in Prolegomena	63
C. Metaphysics of Knowledge	67
D. The Teleological Principle in Reality	71
E. Teleology, Time and Eternity	81
F. Green's General Metaphysics and Its Critics	85
G. Green's Doctrine of the Self-assertion of Reason in his Unpublished Lectures.	92
H. Conclusion	105

Chapter III: Positive Freedom	107
A. Green's Theory of Positive Freedom in his Political Speech	108
B. Metaphysical Foundations of Green's Positive Concept of Freedom.	116
C. Positive Freedom and Political Obligation	129
D. The Relationship of Morality and Politics in Green's Earlier Lectures	140
E. Conclusion	153
Chapter IV: Theory and Practice	155
A. Politics in Mid-Victorian England:	157
B. Theory and Practice in Green's Thinking.	164
C. Green's Criticism of Utilitarian Social Theory	170
D. The Logic of Classical Liberal Political Theory.	174
E. The Professorial Lectures on Utilitarianism	177
F. Green and Mill.	185
G. Conclusion	190
Chapter V: Positive Freedom Revisited	193
A. Positive Freedom in Theory and Practice, 1882-1950	195
B. Twentieth Century Conceptual Criticism of Green.	201
C. Berlin's Two Concepts of Liberty	211
D. A Rejoinder to Twentieth Century Criticism of Green.	219
E. On Political Theory	223
F. Conclusion	227
Bibliography.	231
Index	236