

ABOUT AUTHORS

Galen Strawson <gstrawson@mac.com> is Professor of Philosophy at the City University of New York Graduate Center and Reading University.

Peter Carruthers <pcarruth@umd.edu> is Professor of Philosophy at the University of Maryland. His most recent book is The Architecture of the Mind: Massive Modularity and the Flexibility of Thought (OUP).

Sam Coleman <samueljcoleman@hotmail.com> studied at Oxford and Cambridge Universities and received his PhD for a thesis on the 'knowledge argument' against physicalism at Birkbeck College, University of London, where he is now a Research Fellow.

Philip Goff <philgoff1@googlemail.com> has recently submitted a PhD at the University of Reading. His thesis argues for the conceptual coherence and metaphysical possibility of ghosts: subjects of experience whose nature is exhausted by consciousness, by there being something that it is like to be them.

Frank Jackson <Frank.Jackson@anu.edu.au> is Director of the Research School of Social Sciences and Distinguished Professor of Philosophy at The Australian National University. He is the author of publications in the philosophy of mind, philosophy of language, and ethics.

William G. Lycan <ujanel@isis.unc.edu> is William Rand Kenan, Jr. Professor of Philosophy at the University of North Carolina. He is author of many books including Consciousness and Experience (MIT Press, 1996) and Philosophy of Language (Routledge, 2000).

Fiona Macpherson <fiona.macpherson@anu.edu.au> is a lecturer in philosophy and director of the Centre for the Study of Perceptual Experience at the University of Glasgow. She has spent the last year as a research fellow at the Centre for Consciousness at the Australian National University.

David Papineau <david.papineau@kcl.ac.uk> is Professor of Philosophy at King's College London. He has a BSc in mathematics from the University of Natal and a BA and PhD in philosophy from Cambridge University. His books include Reality and Representation (1987), and Thinking about Consciousness (2002).

Georges Rey <georey@earthlink.net> is a professor in the Dept of Philosophy, University of Maryland.

Elizabeth Schechter <lizschechter@hotmail.com > is a PhD student in Philosophy at the University of Maryland. She is writing a dissertation on the ‘split brain’ studies, and what they show about counting minds and streams of consciousness.

Peter Simons FBA <P.M.Simons@leeds.ac.uk> is Professor of Philosophy at the University of Leeds. After studying mathematics and philosophy at Manchester he taught at Bolton and at Salzburg, where he is Honorary Professor. He is the author of two books and some 200 articles on philosophical topics and Austrian and Polish philosophy.

David Skrbina <skrbina@umd.umich.edu> is a Lecturer in Philosophy at the University of Michigan at Dearborn. He received his PhD, from the University of Bath, UK in 2001. His book, Panpsychism in the West, was published by MIT Press in 2005.

J.J.C. Smart <John.Smart@arts.monash.edu.au> is emeritus professor of Adelaide and Australian National Universities, and an honorary fellow of Monash University and Corpus Christi College, Oxford. His main interests have been in metaphysics, philosophy of mind, philosophy of science, and also ethics.

William Seager <seager@utsc.utoronto.ca> is professor of philosophy at the University of Toronto at Scarborough. Despite having written two books and many articles on the problem of consciousness, he remains quite perplexed.

Henry Stapp <hpstapp@lbl.gov> is a theoretical physicist at the University of California’s Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory. He has written extensively about, the ontological implications of quantum theory, and the mind-brain connection. He is the author of Mind, Matter, and Quantum Mechanics (1993, expanded 2004).

Daniel Stoljar <dstoljar@coombs.anu.edu.au> is Senior Fellow in Philosophy in the Research School of Social Sciences, Australian National University. He is the author of Ignorance and Imagination (OUP, 2006), articles in philosophy of mind, metaphysics and metaethics.

Catherine Wilson <cwilson@gc.cuny.edu> is Professor of Philosophy at the Graduate Center of the City University of New York. She is the author of Moral Animals (2004) and articles and papers in early modern philosophy and history and philosophy of science.